

ORGANIZATIONAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Royal LePage Ignite joins the Royal LePage network

Toronto, Ontario

We are pleased to announce that Royal LePage Ignite Realty, owned by Sugan Sivarajah, has joined the Royal LePage network of 17,000 real estate professionals. While Royal LePage Ignite officially joined Royal LePage in November, the recent opening of a new office at 795 Milner Avenue in the Scarborough area of the Toronto GTA coincides with this announcement.

Sugan began his real estate career in 2007 with Homelife. By 2010, he had built a successful team of five, comprised of mainly family members, friends and even a past client. Recognizing his skill at developing a team, Sugan eventually sought to open his own brokerage. After exploring the various options among real estate companies, Sugan eventually landed with Royal LePage. He cites the Royal LePage culture and a strong Canadian identity as primary factors in his decision. "As an agent, I had often regarded the professionals from Royal LePage as a step above those from other brands," says Sugan.

Now with a team of 30 agents servicing the Toronto GTA, Sugan's focus for Royal LePage Ignite is to remain strongly committed to customer service. In building his team he considers the mindset of recruits, their learning capacity and ascertains where one's interest and skills can be applied to translate into optimal service for clients.
