

ORGANIZATIONAL ANNOUNCEMENT

The independent real estate agency Vendomax is joining Royal LePage

The real estate agency will now operate under the name Royal LePage Partenaire

We are thrilled to announce that the independent real estate agency Vendomax has joined the Royal LePage network as of today. The Laval-based agency, which brings close to 40 real estate brokers to our network, will operate under the name of Royal LePage Partenaire.

Co-owners Martin Buisson and Jean-Marc Giroux have nearly 38 years of combined experience in the real estate field. Mr. Buisson founded the agency in 2009, six years after receiving his real estate broker license. Mr. Giroux has been practicing real estate law for more than 24 years and teaching the subject for over 18 years for many institutions, including the Collège de l'immobilier du Québec, the Cégep de Lanaudière and Cégep des Laurentides.

“We are very proud to join the Royal LePage family. It was time for Vendomax to step up our game and equip ourselves with the technological tools needed to increase our brokers’ productivity. Royal LePage’s prestigious reputation, complete service offering and culture of collaboration are just some of the aspects that convinced us to make this move,” explains Mr. Buisson.
