

Fredericton Home Prices Post Modest Decreases in the Third Quarter of 2017

Decrease in inventory pushes region into a balanced market

FREDERICTON, October 12, 2017 – The aggregate price of a home in Fredericton decreased modestly by 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $235,572 in the third quarter of 2017, according to the Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today.

When broken out by housing type, the median price of a standard two-storey home decreased slightly by 0.3 per cent year-over-year to $284,889. Over the same period of time, the median price of a bungalow decreased 1.8 per cent year-over-year to $196,505.

“We are continuing to see homeowners from Toronto, Vancouver and Calgary relocate to the region and benefit from the significant differences in home prices,” said Lincoln Thompson, broker and owner, Royal LePage Gardiner Realty. “However, first-time buyers are struggling to get in the market. While the region is affordable, mounting regulation, especially mortgage rules that came into effect last year, continue to affect real estate activity.”

Thompson added that while inventory levels are down modestly, there is still enough product on the market to limit price appreciation and keep the region in a balanced market for the remainder of the year.

Nationally, the Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 53 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 13.3 per cent year-over-year to $628,411 in the third quarter. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a standard two-storey home rose 13.9 per cent year-over-year to $748,049, and the median price of a bungalow grew 9.5 per cent to $525,781. During the same period, the median price of a condominium rose 15.2 per cent to $413,670.

Meanwhile, on a quarter-over-quarter basis, home prices in Canada’s five most populated housing markets are rising at a similar, healthy pace – the first time this has occurred in six years.

“For now, the Toronto and Vancouver housing markets have returned to earth,” said Phil Soper, President and CEO, Royal LePage. “After a period of unsustainable price inflation and sharp market corrections, we are seeing low single digit appreciation in each. Calgary has shaken off the oil-bust blues and Montreal appears to be at the beginning of a new era of economic prosperity. Rounding out the ‘big five,’ the Ottawa market is behaving like it usually does - a picture of healthy market growth.”

“Uneven regional economic growth has plagued Canada for much of the past decade, a challenge most evident in the nation’s housing markets,” continued Soper. “For the first time since 2011, we are seeing real estate in all five of our largest cities appreciate at a manageable, healthy clip. Canadian housing is enjoying a Goldilocks moment – not too hot, and not too cold.”
