

Moncton Home Prices See Modest Decrease in the Third Quarter of 2017

Strong sales activity keeps region in balanced market while higher inventory levels limit price appreciation

MONCTON, October 12, 2017 – The aggregate price of a home in Moncton decreased 1.9 per cent year-over-year to $177,261 in the third quarter of 2017, according to the Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today.

When broken out by housing type, the median price of a standard two-storey home decreased 3.7 per cent year-over-year to $175,457. During the same period, the median price of a bungalow remained relatively flat, increasing a modest 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $178,291.

“Sales activity is up and there is excellent demand for high quality listings in good neighbourhoods,” said Carla Bouchard, manager, Royal LePage Atlantic. “Currently, this surge in demand is not increasing home prices as a significant amount of surplus inventory needs to be absorbed before new price gains are made.”

Nationally, the Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 53 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 13.3 per cent year-over-year to $628,411 in the third quarter. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a standard two-storey home rose 13.9 per cent year-over-year to $748,049, and the median price of a bungalow grew 9.5 per cent to $525,781. During the same period, the median price of a condominium rose 15.2 per cent to $413,670.

Meanwhile, on a quarter-over-quarter basis, home prices in Canada’s five most populated housing markets are rising at a similar, healthy pace – the first time this has occurred in six years.

“For now, the Toronto and Vancouver housing markets have returned to earth,” said Phil Soper, President and CEO, Royal LePage. “After a period of unsustainable price inflation and sharp market corrections, we are seeing low single digit appreciation in each. Calgary has shaken off the oil-bust blues and Montreal appears to be at the beginning of a new era of economic prosperity. Rounding out the ‘big five,’ the Ottawa market is behaving like it usually does - a picture of healthy market growth.”

“Uneven regional economic growth has plagued Canada for much of the past decade, a challenge most evident in the nation’s housing markets,” continued Soper. “For the first time since 2011, we are seeing real estate in all five of our largest cities appreciate at a manageable, healthy clip. Canadian housing is enjoying a Goldilocks moment – not too hot, and not too cold.”
