

Record-Low Inventory in Fredericton Drives Competitive Housing Market in Second Quarter

Home prices continue steady rise despite impact from mortgage stress tests

FREDERICTON, July 10, 2019 – The Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today showed steady growth in Fredericton, with home prices increasing 2.5 per cent year-over-year in the second quarter of 2019, to an aggregate price of $257,274.

When broken out by housing type, bungalows showed a healthy increase of 3.6 per cent year-over-year in the second quarter rising to a median price of $236,670. Meanwhile, the median price of a two-storey home increased 1.2 per cent year-over-year to $290,553.

“With inventory levels at record lows we are seeing properties sell very quickly, often after receiving multiple offers,” said Lincoln Thompson, broker and owner, Royal LePage Gardiner Realty. “Bungalows are in high demand, as older generations downsize and Maritimers return from out-of-province to retire at home.

“While the area continues to be very affordable, first-time home buyers struggle to overcome the mortgage stress test. Reduced government spending is also impacting the local economy, but we still predict strong sales this summer due to lack of supply on the market,” continued Thompson.

The Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 63 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 1.1 per cent year-over-year to $621,696 in the second quarter of 2019. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a two-storey home rose 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $727,165, while the median price of a bungalow dipped 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $516,048. Condominiums remained the fastest growing housing type on a national basis, with its median price rising 3.8 per cent year-over-year to $452,451.

“We now have evidence of a sustained market recovery in the nation’s largest market, and signs of a price floor in other regions hit hard by the eighteen month-old housing correction,” said Phil Soper, president and CEO, Royal LePage. “Only in the West do we see a significant number of home buyers remaining on the sidelines, depressing sales volumes and causing prices to sag. Buoyed by supportive economic conditions, many stubborn homeowners in B.C. and Alberta remain unwilling to let their precious real estate go for less than what they perceive as fair value, which has gone a long way to protecting existing home values.”

Royal LePage expects national home prices to see a modest uptick by the end of the year, rising 0.4 per cent compared to the end of 2018.
