

Kingston Housing Market Remains Red-Hot

Prices continue to rise in popular Canadian retirement and recreational area

KINGSTON, July 10, 2019 – According to the Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today, the aggregate home price in Kingston rose yet again in the second quarter of 2019, increasing 6.9 per cent year-over-year to $398,548.

The median price of a two-storey home increased 3.0 per cent year-over-year to $416,796 while during the same quarter the median price of a bungalow saw a significant 9.4 per cent increase year-over-year to $382,098.

“We are seeing historic low inventories,” said Bob Armer, area manager, Royal LePage ProAlliance Realty. “We’ve never had this few properties for sale in Kingston, reflecting low supply and huge demand. Rates are low and the economy is performing well. When a good house comes on the market, people bid on it. Multiple offers keep pushing prices up.”

Armer said the median price also rose after higher-end cottages and waterfront properties sold following a cold, wet spring that delayed those listings. He expects “more of the same” in the third quarter, as more retirees from the GTA come to the area, using the equity from their Toronto home sale as a retirement fund, while few residents leave Kingston.

“Millennials are choosing lifestyle; they can get a nice home in a great neighbourhood and work remotely -- or leave the big city to find a similar job with similar pay,” said Armer.

The Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 63 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 1.1 per cent year-over-year to $621,696 in the second quarter of 2019. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a two-storey home rose 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $727,165, while the median price of a bungalow dipped 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $516,048. Condominiums remained the fastest growing housing type on a national basis, with its median price rising 3.8 per cent year-over-year to $452,451.

“We now have evidence of a sustained market recovery in the nation’s largest market, and signs of a price floor in other regions hit hard by the eighteen month-old housing correction,” said Phil Soper, president and CEO, Royal LePage. “Only in the West do we see a significant number of home buyers remaining on the sidelines, depressing sales volumes and causing prices to sag. Buoyed by supportive economic conditions, many stubborn homeowners in B.C. and Alberta remain unwilling to let their precious real estate go for less than what they perceive as fair value, which has gone a long way to protecting existing home values.”

Royal LePage expects national home prices to see a modest uptick by the end of the year, rising 0.4 per cent compared to the end of 2018.
