

Kitchener/Waterloo/Cambridge Home Prices Increase across All Property Types in Second Quarter

Condo sales reinforced by growing tech sector and manufacturing expansion in the region

KITCHENER/WATERLOO/CAMBRIDGE, July 10, 2019– The Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today showed a year-over-year 2.5 per cent increase for house prices in the Kitchener/Waterloo/Cambridge region during the second quarter of 2019, reaching an aggregate price of $503,605.

When broken out by housing type, the median price of a condo showed a healthy gain of 4.3 per cent year-over-year, rising to $308,818. The median price of a bungalow increased 3.4 per cent year-over-year to $465,498. Meanwhile, the median price of a two-storey home increased 2.2 per cent year-over-year to $531,978.

“We saw a healthy increase in condo sales this quarter, with more buyers looking to purchase a home closer to our burgeoning technology hub and developing downtown area,” said Keith Church, broker and owner, Royal LePage Grand Valley Realty. “Stable interest rates, a steady supply of employment opportunities, and affordable prices for the majority of employed residents are providing the foundation for a balanced market.

Church added that first-time home buyers in the region are not as impacted by the mortgage stress test rules compared to home buyers in other parts of the country.

“We predict this spring’s momentum to continue into the summer,” said Church.

The Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 63 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 1.1 per cent year-over-year to $621,696 in the second quarter of 2019. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a two-storey home rose 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $727,165, while the median price of a bungalow dipped 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $516,048. Condominiums remained the fastest growing housing type on a national basis, with its median price rising 3.8 per cent year-over-year to $452,451.

“We now have evidence of a sustained market recovery in the nation’s largest market, and signs of a price floor in other regions hit hard by the eighteen month-old housing correction,” said Phil Soper, president and CEO, Royal LePage. “Only in the West do we see a significant number of home buyers remaining on the sidelines, depressing sales volumes and causing prices to sag. Buoyed by supportive economic conditions, many stubborn homeowners in B.C. and Alberta remain unwilling to let their precious real estate go for less than what they perceive as fair value, which has gone a long way to protecting existing home values.”

Royal LePage expects national home prices to see a modest uptick by the end of the year, rising 0.4 per cent compared to the end of 2018.
