

Multiple Offers Fuel House Prices in Ottawa

Population growth, increased demand, and economic stability support seller's market

OTTAWA, July 10, 2019 – The aggregate home price in Ottawa rose 6.2 per cent year-over-year to $474,049 in the second quarter of 2019, surpassing predictions from the previous quarter, according to the Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today.

The median price of a two-storey home increased 6.9 per cent year-over-year to $501,471 while bungalows rose 7.4 per cent year-over-year to $479,900. In the same period, the median price of a condominium saw a slight decrease of 0.9 per cent year-over-year to $321,359.

“It’s been an exciting market all around, with multiple offers,” stated Kent Browne, broker/owner, Royal LePage TEAM Realty. “Last year, condos were a buyer’s market but now we’re well into seller’s territory. A townhouse that sold at $295,000 three years ago would be $340,000 now.”

Looking ahead to the end of the year, Royal LePage is forecasting prices to continue upward momentum. Ottawa’s aggregate home price is expected to increase 1.6 per cent from year-end 2018.

“The population just surpassed one million last month; we grow by 28 people per day. High tech in the region is booming, which is reflected in our vibrant housing market,” Browne said.

The Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 63 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 1.1 per cent year-over-year to $621,696 in the second quarter of 2019. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a two-storey home rose 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $727,165, while the median price of a bungalow dipped 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $516,048. Condominiums remained the fastest growing housing type on a national basis, with its median price rising 3.8 per cent year-over-year to $452,451.

“We now have evidence of a sustained market recovery in the nation’s largest market, and signs of a price floor in other regions hit hard by the eighteen month-old housing correction,” said Phil Soper, president and CEO, Royal LePage. “Only in the West do we see a significant number of home buyers remaining on the sidelines, depressing sales volumes and causing prices to sag. Buoyed by supportive economic conditions, many stubborn homeowners in B.C. and Alberta remain unwilling to let their precious real estate go for less than what they perceive as fair value, which has gone a long way to protecting existing home values.”

Royal LePage expects national home prices to see a modest uptick by the end of the year, rising 0.4 per cent compared to the end of 2018.
