

Winnipeg House Prices Increase During Active Spring Market

Demand for two-storey homes results in listings going for over asking price

WINNIPEG, July 10, 2019 – The aggregate price of a home in Winnipeg saw a healthy increase in the second quarter of 2019, rising 4.0 per cent year-over-year to $305,612, according to the Royal LePage House Price Survey¹ released today,

The median price of a two-storey home increased 8.3 per cent year-over-year to $337,579 and the median price of a bungalow increased 0.3 per cent year-over-year to $286,305 during the same period. On the other hand, condominium prices seemingly continued to dip slightly, with a year-over-year decrease of 2.1 per cent in median price, landing at $237,416 this quarter.

“One in five homes are selling over list price,” said Michael Froese, managing partner, Royal LePage Prime Real Estate. “Millennials are especially active in the first-time home buyer market as Winnipeg remains one of the most affordable major cities in Canada.”

Looking ahead to the end of the year, Royal LePage is forecasting the aggregate price of a home in Winnipeg to see a modest lift of 0.3 per cent compared to year-end 2018.

Froese stated the housing market in the region usually flattens in the last two quarters, but healthy inventory and affordability provide great choice for first-time home buyers, particularly as the condominium market slowly recovers.

The Royal LePage National House Price Composite, compiled from proprietary property data in 63 of the nation’s largest real estate markets, showed that the price of a home in Canada increased 1.1 per cent year-over-year to $621,696 in the second quarter of 2019. When broken out by housing type, the median price of a two-storey home rose 1.0 per cent year-over-year to $727,165, while the median price of a bungalow dipped 0.4 per cent year-over-year to $516,048. Condominiums remained the fastest growing housing type on a national basis, with its median price rising 3.8 per cent year-over-year to $452,451.

“We now have evidence of a sustained market recovery in the nation’s largest market, and signs of a price floor in other regions hit hard by the eighteen month-old housing correction,” said Phil Soper, president and CEO, Royal LePage. “Only in the West do we see a significant number of home buyers remaining on the sidelines, depressing sales volumes and causing prices to sag. Buoyed by supportive economic conditions, many stubborn homeowners in B.C. and Alberta remain unwilling to let their precious real estate go for less than what they perceive as fair value, which has gone a long way to protecting existing home values.”

Royal LePage expects national home prices to see a modest uptick by the end of the year, rising 0.4 per cent compared to the end of 2018.
